The 1942-1943 Ranger

CHISHOLM HIGH SCHOOL
CHISHOLM, MINNESOTA
Volume 29      Number 2

Yesterday--

A weapon of threat to our arsenal of democracy was pointed at us when a storm over Pearl Harbor was followed by night bombs and artillery fire that flamed toward the heavens and stars. America was at war!

Today--

Yes, America is at war, a different America, ours of 1943. Now her men are protecting her—soldiers of the land, sea, and air.

Our soldiers are marching over Guadalcanal, Dutch Harbor, and Casablanca. As they operate machine guns in North African deserts, Alaskan storms, and Malayan jungles, they are helping to uphold the tradition of courage that MacArthur and Eisenhower have made for them. They are protecting the land for you, America.

Our sailors are sailing through the South China, Bering, and Mediterranean seas. As they man submarines and u-boats through Pacific battlefronts, perilous Australian waters, and mine-infested North Atlantic waters, they are inspired to be worthy seamen by the achievements of Admiral Halsey. They are protecting the sea for you, America.

Our aviators are flying over Wilhemshaven, Naples, and Yokohama. As they pilot bombers and fortresses over Italian coasts, Japanese bases, and German industrial towns, they are helping to carry on the heroism of Jimmy Doolittle and Eddie Rickenbacker. They are protecting the air for you, America.

These are our men—our brothers, fathers, classmates, friends. They are making America strong for us by defending the land, sea, and air. They have a job to do, and they are doing it well.

Tomorrow--

We will send more soldiers and more sailors and more aviators until America delivers her victory message to mankind. Then her strength will help her mould the design for tomorrow's world. She will be strong, for her men will have made her so.

To these, our alumni, men and women, who are dedicating their service, courage, achievements, and ideals to our country, we dedicate this Annual of 1943.

Our Campus Calendar

The campus of Chisholm High keeps in step with the seasons. The late autumn flowers make their last appearance when we make our first appearance in classes to study developments in German and geometry. As midwinter casually slips in (and after a fashion, semester exams), Minnesota's winter pincer movement sifts snow upon the boulevards, and a fair share of subzero weather is certain to follow. Finally, when our mental machinery is in the process of digesting some philosophy, our thoughts turn to Spring, which breezes into the campus with lilacs and budding leaves.

Since every campus must be highlighted by the faces of youth, this page represents a cross-section of our school co-eds. Clockwise: in the upper left-hand corner, Jean Wolff's and Jacquelyn Williams' channel of conversation ranges from fooball to fudge and homework to history; Joyce Hudy and Doris Stanich leave the auditorium of our allied workshop, the Junior High; Olga Kuharenko and Dorothy Grzincich enter the halls of learning as they discuss the details of their shorthand quiz; the secret of making baskets and free throws is thoroughly discussed by Merko Smilanich and Robert Lagather as they leave basketball practice.

The Commanding Officers

At the top of this page is Mr. J. P. Vaughan, our superintendent whose devotion to and interest in youth have inspired him to give generously of his time, efforts, and ability in order to maintain high standards in scholarship, sports, and the fine arts. In the center are Mr. A. F. Drotning, principal, and Miss Alice Hickey, dean of girls. Their duties include war-time education and training for post-war problems. Below is Mr. E. R. Steffensrud, vocational adviser, who has helped us keep well-informed on qualifications and training for the different branches of the armed service.

In order to carry out effectively the objectives of the Army of the United States, generals, captains, and majors are selected and trained to perform the duties which require skill, precision, and accuracy. The progress and thoroughness of army routine and strategy depend on them. They are the axis on which the globe of army life rotates.

Likewise, the administration of Chisholm High has competent leaders and counselors who are entrusted with the task of training and preparing us to meet life's problems wisely. They are the backbone of our school's success.

Our Strategists and Aides

The school board manages the business of our school on very efficient lines. They decide on the teachers' salaries, student transportation, and are responsible for the general upkeep of the schools and the grounds. The school directors are: left to right around the table, Mr. Louis Propotnick, director; Dr. P. H. Macfarlane, director; Messrs. O. A. Sundness, director; Peter Khrin, chairman; A. H. Swanson, clerk; O. L. Baldrice, treasurer; and Superintendent J. P. Vaughan.

The office staff is an important factor in our school system. They organize school schedules as well as perform their regular secretarial duties. The secretaries are, left to right: Mrs. Victoria Costanzi, Mrs. Madeline Malene, Miss Angeline Jenko, and Miss Julia Lobas.

They Coach the Corps

Experienced instructors, thoroughly trained in their special phase of warfare, are now passing on their learning to privates, seamen, and cadets. These recruits must be taught skill, accuracy, and precision with a knowledge of army and navy tactics. Proper education for these men means efficiency in carrying out the campaigns of this war.

Our faculty is training us for useful service, too. Special emphasis on science and mathematics is furthering our preparation for technical and highly-specialized work. The study of languages and the fine arts is broadening us culturally, while instruction in physical education and home nutrition are helping to strengthen us physically. Our educators are helping to prepare us for useful living.

Officers on Parade

A jolly foursome indeed is Raymond Danni, treasurer; Dario Rolle, president; Martha Badovinac, secretary; and John Prebil, vice-president; senior executive members who were elected senior officers on October 7.

The officers work with the members of the senior council in choosing class rings, folders, and invitations. In the picture, you see President Dario Rolle giving an order to council members Olga Kuharenko, Alex Kurak, Robert Kostelic, Steve Uchal, John Sleconich, and Robert Siefert.

Below, you see a group of seniors talking over the results of the elections on the way to their English class.

We'll Always Remember

Picture I. Marianne Vidmar, a senior who took the senior girls' course in biology offered by Mr. Kotchevar, traces an inspiration of air through the respiratory tract. Judging from the attentiveness of the students, we would say it looks as if they were getting an "inspiration" from Marianne's explanation.

Picture II. The Seniors will never forget Dr. Graham's way of putting them at ease during the tuberculosis inoculation. Robert Siefert looks quietly on while Rosemary Vaida is inoculated for the tuberculosis test.

Picture III. Jacquelyn Williams, James Hathaway, Florence Mlachnik, and Duane Adamic, displayed their dramatic ability when they dramatized a scene from "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." Not one of the players was a victim of stage fright. They performed like regular troopers and presented an enjoyable performance for the senior English class.

Picture IV. Queen Patricia Kealy ruled graciously over the activities of our second homecoming. Queen Pat's ladies-in-waiting were Florence Mlachnik, Ella-mae Anderson, Mae Paoli, and Jacquelyn Williams. Football Captain Dario Rolle crowned the queen at the Homecoming Ball. Marilyn Marum, our tiniest sophomore, was the crown bearer.

Here They Are--

The junior class in action!
At the left are class officers Joseph Smilanich, Walter Kordish, Carol Matetich, and Frank Sajevic making plans for a successful Junior Prom.

A great deal can be learned in a day with Miss Schubert's American History class of Juniors. Mae Ruth Pietila and Roger Johnson locate historic points on the map as the rest of the class look on.

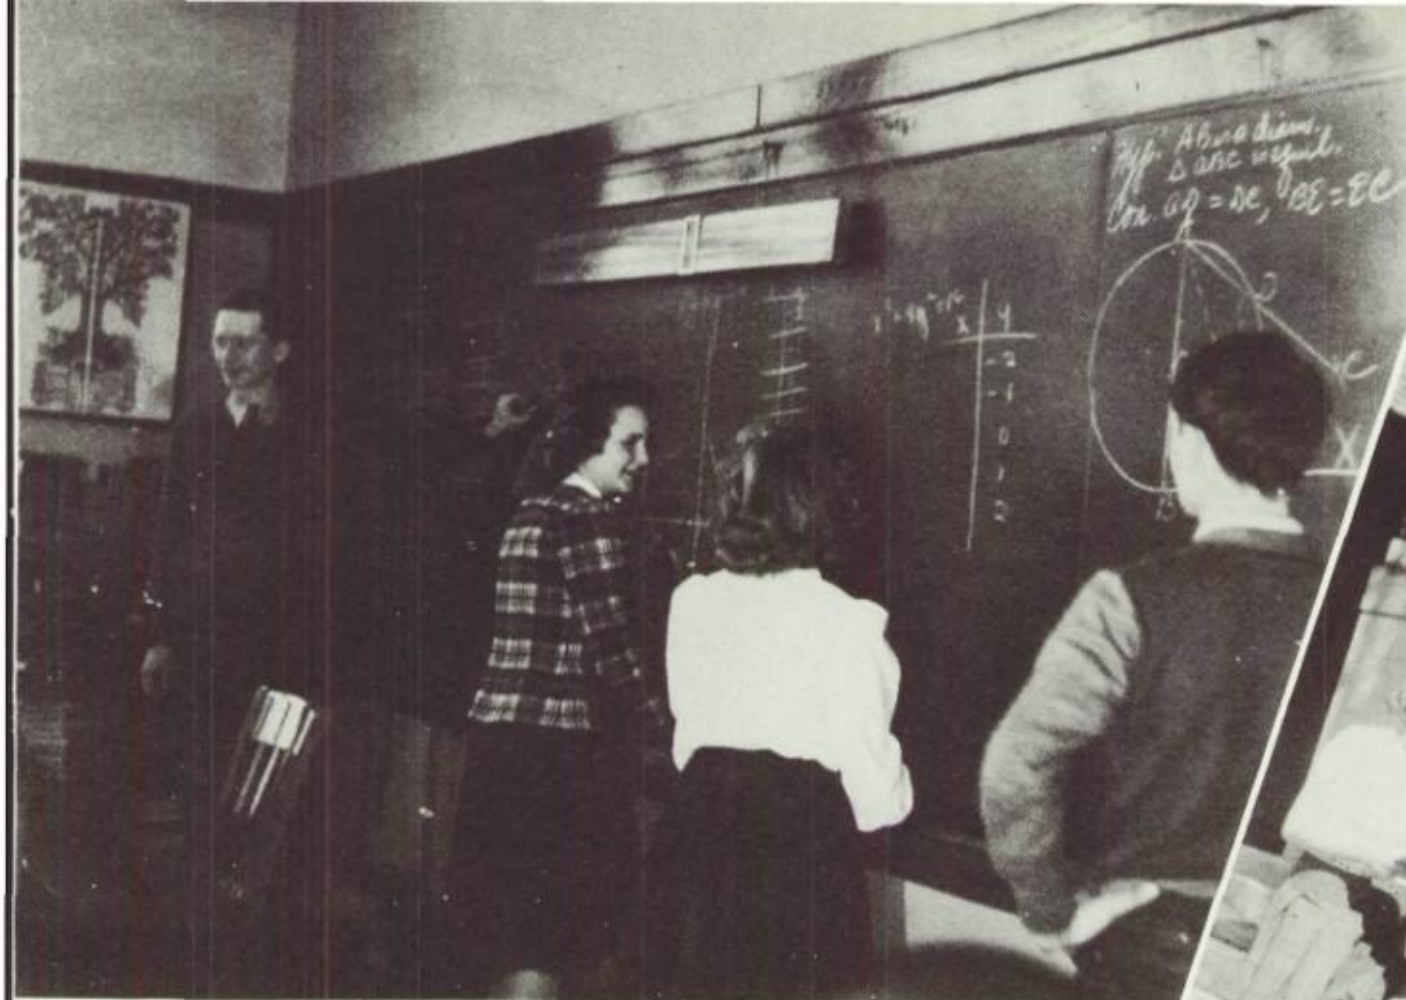

Patty Auble and Virginia Mahan are absorbed in library work while Ann Macynski refers to the pamphlet file for special current news.

Have you ever wondered where those odd odors came from as you walk through the halls to your classes? They are the results of experiments of junior chemists. Here are Maphalda Mantini, Margaret Tuman, George Tupac, and Joseph Graham.

Non-Commissioned Officers

Below are a group of non-commissioned officers spending their leisure time in the library keeping up with the latest developments at home and abroad. In this way, they will not only broaden their general knowledge but equip themselves to receive a commission in the near future.

Buck Privates

It's inspection time for the latest enlistees, the sophomores. These enthusiastic buck privates wasted no time in swinging into the training habits of the senior high. In fact, they began having promotions in sports, music, speech, and other extra-curricular activities, as well as in the daily class routine.

Honorary Auxiliary Corps.

The Honorary Auxiliary Corps (Erodelphian Society) under the leadership of Commanding Officer Alice J. Hickey, carried on a full program of activities.

The Mid-semester Formal Hop (Ero Ball) provided the enlisted personnel with a bit of relaxation after the grueling grind of Induction and Classification Tests (Semester Exams.)

The induction of sophomores and juniors in March swelled the ranks of the auxiliary to sixty-four.

The picture to the left shows Auxiliaries Donna McNiven and Mildred Koscak doing their assignment on the Induction ceremonies while First-Officer Marianne Vidmar looks on.

Deutscher Verein and National Honor

The greatest honor a senior of our ranks can receive is election to the National Honor society. Eligibility to membership is determined by the student's character, leadership, scholarship, and service.

In spite of the war this year, the German Club remained an active organization. Under the guidance of Miss Desanka Baich, German instructor, the students enjoyed themselves and learned their German as well. As a part in the war effort, students studied words pertaining to military strategy.

The organization also sponsored the country dance, the event of the year. In the picture, the entire club is shown decorating for the affair.

Grouped around the table are Kathryn Kiley, Mary Valentini, vice-president; Thomas Monte, president; Ines Monterotti, and Vera Pagliaccetti, secretary. Standing are Ruth Lagerstedt and Lucille Varda.

Stage Door

Bottom Row: Steffensrud, Prebil, Indihar, Huber, Williams.

This year the National Forensic League under the supervision of Miss Mae Topolka confined its activities almost entirely to the school and community. Transportation restrictions abolished interscholastic contests with the exception of a district debate tournament in Coleraine, and a regional speech meeting in Coleraine.

The senior class play was presented on May 21. "Letters to Lucerne," is the story of an idyllic school for girls in Switzerland, excluded from the hatreds of the world. When the war breaks out, bitterness toward the German girl, Erna Schultz, is aroused, and the school turns against her.

In the closing act, the girls then realize that only through their love and understanding can they help Erna know the security of a democracy.

Music Makers

During the year, the high school band and orchestra have done their part to add color to school activities. The band has prompted our basketball and football teams. The organization had the honor of representing our district at the regional tournament in Duluth. The orchestra upheld its tradition of playing good music for programs and banquets.

In the picture at the right, Park Borgeson, Carol Linstrom, Delores Mattson, and Mae Ruth Pietila are engaged in an informal practice in one of the rooms of our music department.

Music students enjoy practicing at the regular after-school sessions. Under the direction and friendly guidance of Mr. Louis Regis, they practice and learn to appreciate a variety of selections which include the classics, musical comedy, and modern descriptive arrangements.

The Singing Brigade

The musically-minded enlisted personnel volunteer their services for the Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs under the direction of Commanding Officer, Alice E. Dawson. The Singing Brigade performed in the Service Clubs (Junior and Senior Study Halls) to lead the privates and their officers in community singing. The walls of the service clubs swelled to such stirring songs as: "Army Air Corps Song," "Marines' Hymn," and "United Nations on the March." Both these groups did much to bolster our morale when the going was a little hard.

Music Hath Charms

Chosen from the ranks of the "Singing Brigade" are those students who make up the A Cappella Choir. Commanding Officer Alice E. Dawson chooses those who she believes have voice quality, sight reading ability, and cooperation.

On December 12, 1942, the A Cappella Choir with the Glee Clubs presented a lovely program of Christmas hymns and carols to get us all in the "holiday mood," before leaving on our Christmas furloughs.

On May 14, 1943, the combined choirs presented a program for Visiting Day of such songs as "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" and "Summertime." A lovely patriotic theme concluded the program with "Song of Man" and "You're a Grand Old Flag."

In the upper right hand corner, Marjorie Hulme is shown making a recording while her commanding officer operates the machine.

The Ranger staff of twenty-three members has worked double time this year to put out a more attractive and interesting literary issue and annual. One extra-large literary issue was compiled this year under the able direction of its editor, James Hathaway. Published in the magazine are samples of the best work done by students in their English classes during the year.

Ellamae Anderson, editor, and her staff have done much overtime work to assemble the picture, copy, and identifications into a better, more illustrative, and worthwhile Annual. Miss Margaret Darling is the adviser of all publications.

This spring eleven members were initiated into the International High School Journalistic Society, the Quill and Scroll. The initiates wore pastel formals in the beautiful and impressive candlelight ceremony. A small orchestra provided a soft musical background.

Time and a Half

The Bluestreak staff, headed by Dorothy Koscak as editor, has published twelve issues of the Bluestreak during the year. The office hums with excitement for days before the completed edition is distributed. Our willing and enthusiastic staff worked time and one-half to have the paper out before the self-imposed dead-line.

The "dummies", prepared by our editor, are "oked", then stenciled, mimeographed, mimeographed, and finally assembled.

Pictured at the right are two of the chief workers on the production line, Harriet Helming and Elaine Vuicich. The pages are stenciled by Harriet; the finishing touches such as titles, by-lines, and cartoons are added by Elaine on the mimeoscoping machine.

The mimeographing room is the next scene in our assembly line. Lorraine Feller runs the mimeographing machine while Thomas Monte and Lorraine Frykman slip sheet. The finished pages are de-slip sheeted and examined by Mayme Merila and Joyce Mohaupt.

Staff members worked time and one-half on the Annual and literary issue in order to get them out on schedule. Pictured at the bottom are James Hathaway and Ellamae Anderson working overtime to distribute the Ranger to Helen Ryerson, Frank Raushel, Ida May Runquist and other subscribers.

We Plodded the Gridiron

The 1943 Bluestreak gridders, coached by "Hank" Hugener, had a successful season in spite of winning only one game. The team had a determined fighting spirit which gave all of their opponents terrific opposition.

Under able Captain Dario Rolle, the team fought out each encounter to the final report of the gun. The Streaks lacked experienced line-men who just couldn't pave the way for the veteran ball-carriers. Each game in which the Streaks participated was a fine spectacle because the boys fought hard and played their best.

Follows a resume of the highlights of the season: The first game of the season against Duluth Central proved that our boys were strong blockers who knew their football tactics. It seemed that the Streaks just couldn't score against Virginia although the entire football game was played in enemy territory. Each long drive would place the Hugener men near the goal line from where the Bluedevils would kick it back to safety. Virginia's touchdown came after a jumble in center field. Our only victory was over Buhl in which we overwhelmed them with touchdowns. Mihelich was the star performer making most of the touchdowns on perfect runs. The Hibbing game was really a thriller with the Bluestreaks taking an early lead only to be overcome in the latter part of the game. Our encounter with Coleraine was very exciting with Chisholm coming back in the last half of play to make it anybody's game. However, the time ran short with Coleraine the winner. The last game was lost by a small margin to Eveleth.

Some of the outstanding performers throughout the entire season were Dario Rolle, William Mihelich, William Kirk, and Robert Burich who carried the ball while Robert Siefert, Walter Kordich, John Sleconich, and Walter Beissel battled on front Lines.

Coach Harvey J. Roels' Bluestreaks racked up an impressive record for the 1942-43 season, winning 15 encounters and losing three. Two of these defeats were dealt by the powerful Virginia team, which finished third in the State tournament.

The Roels-Royce won the 1943 District 28 tournament, defeating Hibbing in the championship match. The Streaks lost to Virginia in the semi-finals of the Region Seven tournament, but captured the consolation title, by downing Rush City, 45 to 31.

The Roelsmen opened the season with consecutive wins, but Greenway stopped this victory streak by toppling Chisholm, 40 to 38. A week later, Virginia overpowered the Streaks for their first defeat in season play.

Three Chisholm players were on the All-District 28 team, Captain Andy Kne, Bob Burich, and Anton Mehle.

Hail Our Heroes!

Captain Andy Kne shoots a one-hander against Greenway High of Coleraine in the Streaks' first tussle of the District 28 tournament. Chisholm won the game, 35-26.

Surrounded by his team mates, Captain Andy Kne accepts the District 28 trophy from Superintendent S. A. Patchin, district 28 committee chairman, after a 46-22 triumph over the Hibbing Bluejackets.

The Streaks' Captain Andy did it again, while Fogelberg, (11) of Coleraine and Burich (foreground) of Chisholm watched on. Andy sparked Chisholm's drive throughout the tournament.

Champions All

Standing: Smilanich, Sajevic, Marinkovich, Erspamer. Seated: Lucca, Stainiger, Coach Latkovich, Vitali, Berarducci.

The instant the first half of every home basketball ended, Instructor John Latkovich and company went into action. Unlike the half-time performers of other schools, the Chisholm Gym team entertained the fans with spectacular maneuvers on the parallel bars, rings, mats, and horses led by such stars as Mr. Latkovich, Ramey Erspamer, Donald Marinkovich, and others. Though gymnastics is a minor sport, the school can truly appreciate the fact that it has one of the best squads in the state.

Standing: Coach Giffei, Sametz, Medalie, K. Rudstrom, Berkman, Casey, Borgeson, Mattson, Extrum. Seated: Dodier, Huber, Chipman, Klanchnik, H. Rudstrom, Sterle, Erickson

With a squad composed mostly of sophomore and junior material, Coach Carl G. Giffei's 1942-1943 swimming team came through a disastrous season with but one victory in eleven starts. The tankers improving all along, defeated Eveleth in their final meet. Captain Ed. Klanchnik and sophomore backstroker, Fred Sterle were the chief point winners for the squad.

Coach Harvey J. Roels' 1942-43 edition of the Chisholm Track team did not participate in any interscholastic meets, due to other major attractions interfering.

Captain Raymond Erspamer led the team throughout the season, ably assisted by Charles McDonald.

The squad started to practice late in the season because of adverse weather conditions, but the boys worked hard and deserve all the credit given them.

Ballroom Promenades

Our gymnasium was turned into a southern colonial garden for the 1943 Junior-Senior Promenade. The girls, in flowing or swishing skirts and with fragrant corsages, and young men danced to the music under the direction of Mr. Louis S. Regis.

During intermission, punch was served in the cafeteria.

The striking moment of the evening was the Grand March led by Beatrice Ladin and Joseph Smilanich.

The decorations were worked out by the Junior Prom committee under the advice of Mr. Richard Sielaff.

A galaxy of red and white hearts of all shapes and sizes were the decorations for the Ero Ball which took place February 13.

The Rhythm Knights furnished the music for the evening.

The high spot of the evening was the Grand March led by Marianne Vidmar, first semester president, and Edward Bovitz; Jacquelyn Willians, second semester president, and George Rydos.

Picture III.

Patricia Kealy, who believes that "Practice makes perfect," takes her first lessons on the adding machine. Vera Pagliaccetti knows the value of a good vocabulary and consults Webster frequently.

Picture IV.

War Time Education

Picture one—

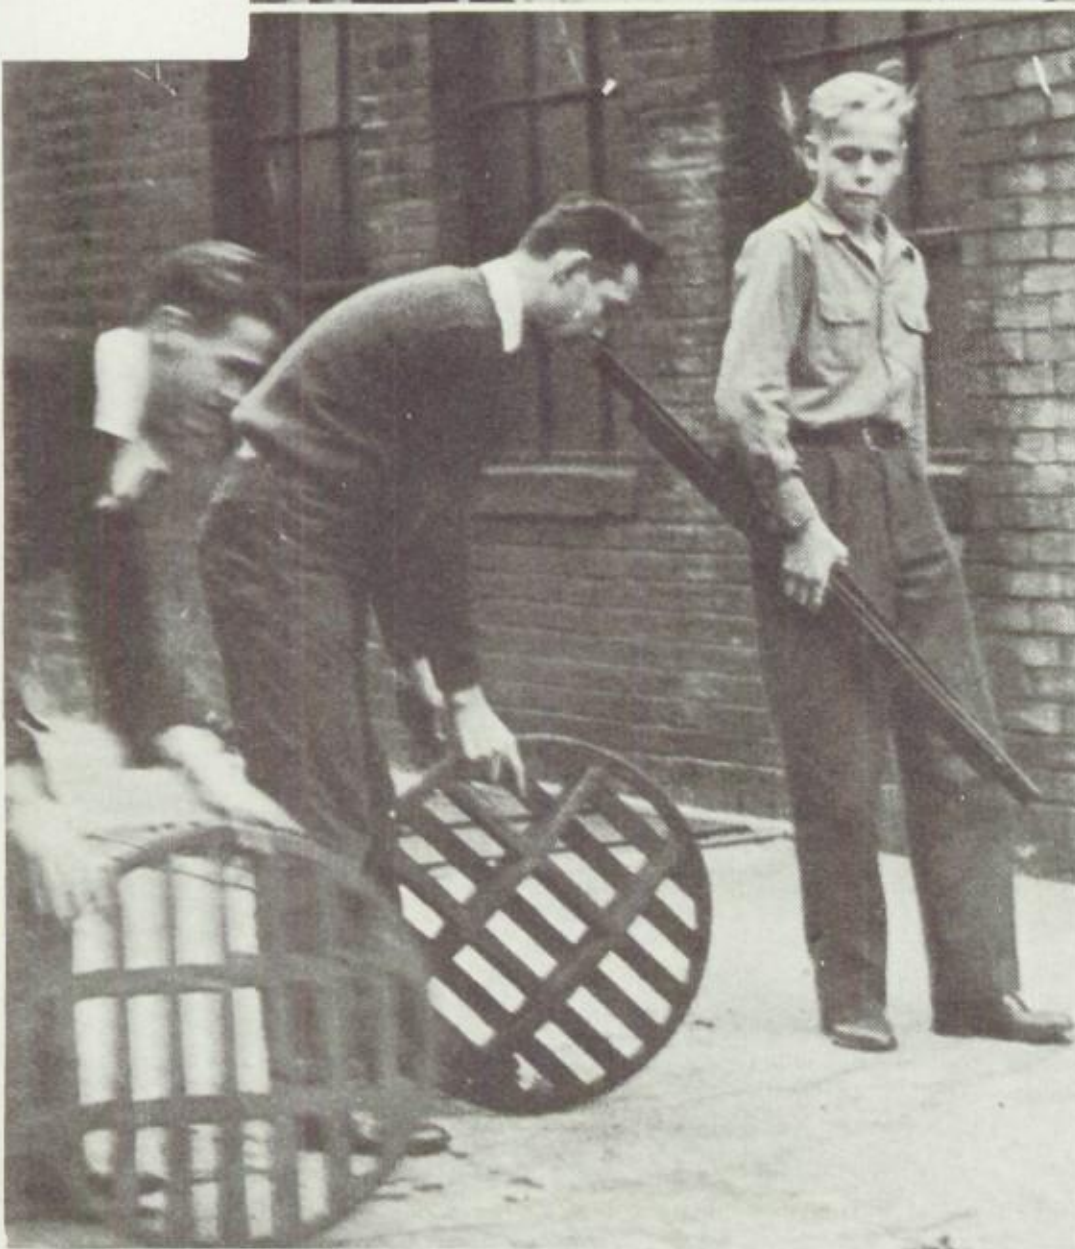

Conrad Olson, Richard Hooper, Robert Arko, and Rudolph Mehle become skillful in the industrial arts with the direction and help of Mr. Wilson. One of the most interesting projects the boys in these classes have undertaken this year is the building of model airplanes for the government.

Picture two—

The scrap drive we had this fall made all of us iron-conscious. Anton Mehle, William Mihelich, and Paul Lagerstedt demonstrate their willingness to help raise the amount of iron collected by high school pupils.

Picture three—

All of the girls in the cooking classes learn the basic requirements for good health. Norma Maki, Stephanie Kochar, Florence Mlachnik, Angeline Ovuka, and Ann Rohach receive expert advice from Miss Nelson. Students in the home economics classes also learn how to plan and prepare well-balanced as well as attractive meals.

Inspection Day

Chisholm students undergo inspection by our parents and friends twice a year. The occasion is visiting day. We look forward to these special days as a time when we can impress the visitors with the exhibition of the art work which adorns the halls, the program which is given in the junior study hall, and the tea which is served in the gym. Students with musical or dramatic ability are important in making the programs a success. The tea is prepared by the cooking classes. Members of the class also act as hostesses.

At the left, Royal Huber points out an exceptionally fine study of still life to his mother, Mrs. Royal Huber.

The WAR OF WORDS

Modern wars are fought with words as well as steel. Our enemies take half-truths and distort them into mortal blows among those who do not know the facts. The "word front" has proven to be a devastating instrument. It has won, many times almost single handed, battles in which thousands of men would have to die to achieve a like result.

Printing conceded to be the greatest single medium in educating America, is in every "War of Words." Today, as never before, the Printing Industry is united in its desire to help in the battle for the five freedoms.

Your yearbook may not contribute to the war effort, directly—but we hope it will serve as an inspiration and a reminder of the many fine examples and the constructive education offered in your schools.

Come Wind - - Come Weather

Fair weather friends come a penny a dozen. Yours to command when fortune smiles, they soon vanish when adversity threatens. Business policies that are built on expediency may flourish for a season or so, but their foundations rest on the shifting sands of preferred accounts, favored customers, and extra discounts.

Our policy, by contrast, rests squarely on the foundation of equal treatment in price and service to all people alike. It is based firmly on the principles of high quality merchandise, fair dealing, and friendliness. For forty years, it has weathered every test; alike in time of stress and times of plenty. "Come wind, come weather," it is the constant friend, and the staunch ally of the health of the people of Chisholm whose loyal patronage and good will have made possible the continuing progress of the
